Re: United States v. Wey, 15 Cr. 611 (AJN)

Dear Judge Nathan:

The Government respectfully submits this letter to request a 30-day extension of the deadline to appeal the decision issued by the Court on June 13, 2017, suppressing evidence seized pursuant to two search warrants. Pursuant to Rule 4(b)(1)(B)(i) of the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, and Title 18, United States Code, Section 3731, the Government must file its notice of appeal within 30 days after the entry of the order being appealed. Accordingly, the Government's deadline to appeal is Thursday, July 13, 2017.

The Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure provide that "[u]pon a finding of excusable neglect or good cause, the district court may – before or after the time has expired, with or without motion and notice – extend the time to file a notice of appeal for a period not to exceed 30 days from the expiration of the time otherwise prescribed by this Rule 4(b)." See Fed. R. App. P. 4(b)(4). In this case, the Government submits that it has good cause to request the 30-day extension because the decision – either to appeal or not appeal – rests with the Solicitor General's Office, which has not yet reported to this Office (and may not report before the deadline) its final determination as to whether the matter should be appealed. In the absence of an extension, this Office is required by department policy to protect the Government's appellate rights by filing a timely notice of appeal, the effect of which would be to cause the district court and the court of appeals to go to the effort of transferring the district court record and docketing the appellate case; work that would prove to have been unnecessary if the Solicitor General's Office thereafter directs this Office to withdraw the appeal. Accordingly, the Government seeks the requested extension to enable the Solicitor General's Office to complete its review and approval process without the need for such an appeal to be filed.

If the Government's request is agreeable to the Court, we have respectfully enclosed a proposed order for the Court's consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

JOON H. KIM
Acting United States Attorney
